Submission of Manuscripts

Cancer Epidemiology, Biomarkers & Prevention publishes original research on cancer causation and prevention in humans, linking three previously unintegrated disciplines: epidemiology, biomarkers, and prevention. Topics include descriptive, analytical, biochemical, and molecular epidemiology; the use of biomarkers to study the neoplastic and preneoplastic processes in humans; chemoprevention and other types of prevention trials; and the role of behavioral factors in cancer etiology and prevention. Manuscripts that address individual subjects in any of the three disciplines are welcome as well as manuscripts with an interdisciplinary approach. All submissions undergo peer review. Papers should be sent directly to Pelayo Correa, M. D., Editor-in-Chief, CEBP, Dept. of Pathology, Louisiana State University Medical Center, 1901 Perdido Street, New Orleans, LA 70112-1393. See Instructions for Authors (page i of this issue) for further information concerning submissions.

CANCER EPIDEMIOLOGIST

A tenure track position is available immediately in the National Cancer Institute (NCI), National Institutes of Health (NIH), for a scientific investigator with expertise and experience in diet, nutrition and cancer epidemiology. Candidates should have a doctorate in nutrition or closely related field with a strong background in laboratory studies related to human nutrition and experience in epidemiology. S/he should have demonstrated experience in interdisciplinary studies which integrate laboratory methods into epidemiologic research design investigating diet and cancer. Experience in development and validation of biological markers, assessment of genetic susceptibility factors, and development of questionnaires for dietary exposure, and integration of all these components into robust epidemiological study design is required. The successful candidate will develop an independent research program focused on interdisciplinary investigations of dietary exposure (assessed via questionnaire and biological specimens) with genetic and other host factors that may be involved in the etiology diet-related tumors. Interested individuals should send a cover letter, curriculum vitae, brief summary of research interests and experience, copies of selected publications, and three letters of reference to:
